About Asians Americans Advancing Justice

Founded in 1983, Asian Americans Advancing Justice – Los Angeles (Advancing Justice-LA), formerly the Asian Pacific American Legal Center, is a unique community-based organization that combines traditional legal aid services and civil rights advocacy. With offices in Los Angeles, Orange County and Sacramento, Advancing Justice-LA has become the largest legal service and civil rights organization in the country that serves, empowers and advocates on behalf of the Asian American, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander (AANHPI) communities. Advancing Justice-LA is a part of a national affiliation comprised of four other leading AANHPI civil rights organizations based in Atlanta, Chicago, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.
Asian Americans Advancing Justice in Orange County

Advancing Justice-LA has long worked on cases affecting the Orange County AANHPI communities, from advocating for hate crimes victims and their families (UC Irvine Asian American students, Thien Minh Ly, Kenny Chiu) to fighting racial discrimination (Asian American employees of retailer Abercrombie & Fitch). In 2006, we opened the Advancing Justice-OC office to better serve the legal needs of the rapidly growing AANHPI community within the county. Over the years, we have provided legal clinics and educational programs on many issues, including immigration, citizenship, family law and domestic violence.

Orange County is home to the 3rd largest Asian American population in the country and Asian Americans Advancing Justice is committed to bringing linguistically and culturally competent services and programs which promote a fair and equitable society for all by empowering AANHPI communities in Orange County. The vision for Asian Americans Advancing Justice – Orange County is to be the unifying voice which can represent the civil and human rights of AANHPI and all underserved communities in Orange County.
